Leverage Session No. 1
Leveraging Your Career in Uncertain Times

Part 1: Seize the Day
Uncertainty as a Catalyst for Meaningful Change

Wednesday, March 4
6.00pm
New York

100 Women in Hedge Funds is hosting a three part series for senior practitioners focusing on ways to manage, cope and dream about our careers during these uncertain times. The three sessions are intended to stimulate a broad ranging conversation about how 100WHF members can utilize our network -- whether you are thriving, seeking or exasperated and ready to do something else.

In the first of the series, Executive Coaches Maggie Craddock and Chris McConnell, will lead a conversation about how to adapt successfully in rapidly changing times. They will share anecdotes from their global client base as a foundation for a discussion about how to invest time and energy to embrace change.

Maggie will give an overview of her work on personal and professional life cycles, and how these cycles shape the ways we navigate major turning points in our lives and careers.

Chris will lead an interactive session to help each individual discover which themes serve as organizing principles for their lives, to create a plan around those principles, and provide tools to achieve the plan.
