Education Session No. 244:

Ian Bremmer, President of the Eurasia Group: The impact of Political Risk on Investment Decisions

January 18, 2011 at 6 PM
New York

Ian will address how understanding political risk is likely to influence investment decision making for 2011 and beyond. He will draw from two of his best-selling books: The End of the Free Market: Who Wins the War Between States and Corporations?, which details the new global phenomenon of state capitalism and its geopolitical implications; and The Fat Tail: The Power of Political Knowledge for Strategic Investing.

Participants

Ian Bremmer, Eurasia Group

Biographies

Ian Bremmer, President, Eurasia Group

Ian Bremmer is the founder and president of Eurasia Group, the leading global political risk research and consulting firm. The company provides financial, corporate, and government clients with information and insight on how political developments move markets.

Bremmer created Wall Street's first global political risk index and has authored several books including the national bestseller, The End of the Free Market: Who Wins the War Between States and Corporations?, which details the new global phenomenon of state capitalism and its geopolitical implications. He also wrote The J Curve: A New Way to Understand Why Nations Rise and Fall and The Fat Tail: The Power of Political Knowledge for Strategic Investing. Bremmer is a contributor for the Wall Street Journal and writes "The Call" blog on ForeignPolicy.com. He is also a panelist for CNN International's "Connect the World," and appears frequently in the media as a political risk expert. Bremmer has a PhD in political science from Stanford University (1994), and he presently teaches at Columbia University. His analysis focuses on global macro political trends and emerging markets, which he defines as "those countries where politics matter at least as much as economics for market outcomes."
