About Susan G. Komen Race for the Cure

Komen Greater NYC was founded in 1990 by friends of the late television journalist Benita Feurey — friends committed to keeping her memory alive by providing breast health education, screening, treatment, and other services to individuals in the five boroughs of New York City, on Long Island, and in Westchester and Rockland Counties. Since its inception, Komen Greater NYC has raised over $50 million. Seventy-five percent of net monies raised supports local breast health education, screening and treatment programs; twenty-five percent goes to national peer-reviewed research to find the cures.

In 2009, Komen Greater NYC awarded nearly $4 million in grants. Over $2.3 million supported 37 community-based organizations that provide breast health programs to underserved women. Three area hospitals received a total of $217,500 to increase the capacity of local researchers to enroll women in breast cancer trials. $45,000 in grants were made available for local breast cancer conferences and education programs. Finally, Komen Greater NYC provided over $1.3 million for national peer-reviewed research programs.
