Biography

Rae Rosen, Senior Economist & Vice President, Federal Reserve Bank of New York

Rae Rosen is a senior economist and vice president at the Federal Reserve Bank of New York. Ms. Rosen helps lead the outreach work at the bank and is a liaison to the business, banking, government, nonprofit and academic groups interested in the regional economy. Ms. Rosen is responsible for the regional road trips of the president of the bank and runs the President's Small Business and Agricultural Advisory Council and the President's Upstate New York Regional Advisory Board. She is a member of several economic advisory panels to state and local governments, business associations and nonprofits that work to further regional development. Her work is designed to bring the bank to the local leadership throughout the region and bring the local issues and concerns back to the bank as input to the formation of monetary policy and bank's dual mandate of full employment and price stability.

Ms. Rosen joined the bank in December 1992. She was appointed an officer of the bank in June 1999, an assistant vice president in June 2003 and vice president in December 2013. Her prior positions have included vice-president, senior economist at the Federal Home Loan Bank of New York, where Ms. Rosen was responsible for forecasts of the regional economy and the real estate market; and senior economist at Merrill Lynch Economics, Inc., where Ms. Rosen was a consultant to major U.S. and European motor vehicle manufacturers and their suppliers.

Ms. Rosen holds an MBA at the Graduate School of Business, New York University and a BA in economics at Barnard College, Columbia University.
