Education Session No. 491:
Is Your Fund Falling Behind?

September 16, 2014 at 6 PM
Stamford, CT

The only thing constant about technology is change; join us to prepare for evolving industry norms as your client's expectations change in parallel. Get an insider's view on key best practices as both security and due diligence demands advance at an increased pace. Do not fall behind the curve, but instead get ahead and leave with key takeaways to help you and your firm take advantage of new advances in technology.

Participants

Wendy Myers Cambor, Dolphin Lane
Robert Gusick, Fir Tree Partners
Jeff Miller, General Atlantic
Denoid Tucker, Moderator, Xand

Biographies

Wendy Myers Cambor, President, Dolphin Lane

Wendy Myers Cambor is president of Dolphin Lane Inc., a financial services consulting firm that advises senior management in the areas of business strategy and development, organization design and talent management, marketing and investor relations planning, legal and regulatory compliance facilitation, service provider navigation and best practices, operations implementation and due diligence, and technology integration and optimization. Ms. Cambor has held leadership positions in both buy-side and sell-side firms, specializing in the design, implementation and management of global business functions for institutional, retail and alternative asset management organizations.

Before founding Dolphin Lane in 2009, Ms. Cambor was an Executive Director at Morgan Stanley where she led organizations in both Prime Brokerage and Asset Management. As head of the Morgan Stanley Prime Brokerage Sales Consulting team, she was responsible for hedge fund business development and consulting, advising clients on launching, growing and optimizing hedge funds. She was also responsible for firmwide Hedge Fund Talent Introductions. At Morgan Stanley Investment Management (MSIM), Wendy was a member of the Operations Executive Team and ran the global management consulting organization for the asset management business. While in MSIM, she built and managed the Hedge Fund Partners (HFP) platform and oversaw investor relations, daily operations, service provider management and technology infrastructure for the direct hedge fund business.

Before joining Morgan Stanley, Ms. Cambor was a manager at Fidelity Investments, where she managed a team responsible for strategic operations and technology solutions across Fidelity businesses. She started her career as an analyst at Andersen Consulting (now Accenture) where she advised clients on business strategy, operations best practices and information technology.

Ms. Cambor holds a Bachelor of Science in Operations Research and Industrial Engineering from Cornell University. She is a Board Member of the Barnard College Athena Center for Leadership Studies.

Ms. Cambor is an established industry expert, acclaimed speaker and trusted advisor, applying her extensive experience in alternative, retail and traditional asset management, hands-on knowledge of critical business functions and strong industry relationships developed over 20 years to delivering innovative solutions to over 200 hedge funds and institutional asset management firms.
